Problems? Talk It Out Using God's Word

Pastor Chris

Please don't follow the model of current public discourse. The realm of debate has descended into ad hominem, which attacks people's character rather than discuss viewpoints or red herrings, which seeks to distract or lead people away from the real issues. Instead of engaging one another in meaningful dialogue, public discourse has become another arena of entertainment in which people lift themselves up at the expense of taking others down.

Need evidence? Look online. Social media allows us to connect like never before, yet it also allows a degree of detachment that encourages deliberate, terse and abusive attacks. Some Twitter users, especially, have a propensity to unleash sordid and savage discourse at someone else's expense. You most likely have heard of the term "Twitter War," a most appropriate moniker that glorifies inappropriate behavior disguised as debate.

Communication, at its core, is about sharing ideas while also connecting to others. Communication always has been hampered by sinful behavior. But today's society has sharpened communication to seek and destroy with impunity.

It's easy for those of us in the church to fall prey to these cultural shifts. As we communicate with one another, there are two approaches I hope we will avoid:

Problems? Talk It Out...

The first is talking over someone. This approach turns up the volume and the shock. It seeks to drown out all other voices so they will not be heard. Yet the Scriptures encourage us, especially in our public witnessing, to engage others “with gentleness and respect.”

The second approach is talking about someone. This goes the way of complaining about someone but never trying to actually solve the problem. Instead of confronting someone about a disagreement, this approach attempts to rally others to your cause but does not really care about repairing the relationship that has been affected by the disagreement.

The Scriptures, however, encourage us to talk to someone, most notably, the one with whom there has been a disagreement. You do this face to face in hopes that you might come to an agreement or at least an understanding. This move may be difficult, awkward and even painful, but it seeks to keep the relationship intact. This is the spirit behind Matthew 18, which sets parameters concerning problems between individuals in the church. Yet this approach of talking to someone instead of over or about someone – should be applied in many different situations.

We all must admit we can be a bit too carefree with our words. James reminds us that this is a problem in the third chapter of his letter: “But no human being can tame the tongue,” he writes. “It is a restless evil, full of deadly poison. With it we bless our Lord and Father, and with it we curse people who are made in the likeness of God. From the same mouth come blessing and cursing. My brothers, these things ought not to be so.”

In a world bent on cracking down on inappropriate behavior, we advocate a culture of respect and personhood, but in our dialogue with one another, we demonstrate a lack of respect for others because we are too focused on our own militant viewpoint winning the day. If we are to care about others, our words matter, too.

Thankfully, we have the Word of God. We can speak Law, when appropriate, to one another. We speak Gospel, when appropriate to one another. And when we can't decide and things become muddled, we are encouraged to err on the side of the Gospel.

Of course, this approach does not carry over very well into many of the arenas of public discourse and in a society ever further from the one true God. But Paul had some great advice for the way we talk to one another in our life together as the church. We stay on track when we do what the church does: receiving God's Word and repeating God's Words right back to God and others.

Paul urges: “Be filled with the Spirit, addressing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody to the Lord with your heart, giving thanks always and for everything to God the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, submitting to one another out of reverence for Christ,

Pastor Chris

Bible Studies at Beautiful Savior

9:40 a.m. Sundays: “The Psalms: God’s Comforting Word in Christ”

From the worship of the children of Israel to the newly published hymns and praise songs of today, the psalms have played a central role in the worship of God’s people. This study will introduce you to the teachings and history of the psalms so that this treasure chest of God’s riches will be opened to you and enrich your worship life and devotional reading of the psalms.

7 p.m. Tuesdays: “Will the Real Jesus Please Stand Up”

Imitation Christs roam in and out of our spiritual conversations, lives and beliefs. Do you know these false Christs? Do you worship them? We will continue our study of Dr. Matt Richard’s book that not only identifies 12 common false Christs found in our culture but also reveals the true Jesus Christ found in the pages of Holy Scripture.

6 p.m. Mondays and 9 a.m. Thursdays “Prayer”

Our women’s Bible study will learn how to pray by praying and being prayed for by others. Our Biblical examples will include Mary, Moses, Abraham and Daniel. We will gain new insights and experience in the art of prayer. Questions? Call Loretta Swanson at 218-236-1891.

Special Presentation "Christ in the Passover" 6 p.m. at March 21 Lenten Supper

Beautiful Savior will be supporting missionary work among Jewish people as we welcome Danielle Stavi, who will be giving the special presentation "Christ in the Passover" at 6 p.m. Wednesday, March 21, during our last Lenten Soup and Sandwich Supper.

Danielle will demonstrate the link between the ancient festival of Passover, and how it points to Christ as the great Passover Lamb, who was sacrificed and raised for us.

Danielle is a missionary with Jews for Jesus, a group of people from a Jewish background who believe in Jesus Christ as the messiah and seek to share that proclamation with other Jewish people. A free-will offering will be taken after the presentation.

Join us during this special event, and help support this Christ-centered Gospel ministry.

Election of Officers at Voters' Meeting

There will be a voters' meeting at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, March 18, between services, to elect officers. The financial report and other reports will be given. Please plan to attend. Thanks.

Call Process Update

At our February 11 voters' meeting, the BSLC voters approved moving forward to call an associate pastor. The call papers were completed and submitted after the vote was approved. We now have the fortunate position of being able to interview four candidates from the Seminary in St. Louis, MO. Four call committee members will be interviewing the four seminary candidates on Friday, March 2. We ask that you keep the call committee and seminary candidates in your thoughts and prayers as we continue to follow the call process.

Farewell But Not Really From Vicki

“For I know the plans I have for you,” declares the LORD, “plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future; Jer. 29:11.”

Had I known the plans God had for me in 2017, I would have hidden under a rock! Seriously, I need to thank all of the BSLC family for their support of me in my wonderful job at BSLC. It's been a stressful year, with the death of Bill Sharpe in the District office, with Pastor Dave leaving, and my folks having health issues and having to move them out of their house of 30 years. I've come to realize that I need to have more time to deal with my parents continuing health issues, my children and grandchildren (a new one coming in June), and to spend time with my husband.

I've decided to step down from my office job for the church. I'm not leaving the building; I plan to work for the ND District office four days a week and to assist Tami as she learns the ropes.

The good news is I can still see everyone who stops by and if need be, I can still help out at the church. May God bless you all, and again, thanks—you are all dear friends to me.
